QUESTIONS
Difference

With exceptional emotional and commercial intelligence, you'll draw on your experience to use innovative methods that unlock potential in an organisation and evoke powerful, sustainable change in months.

Is your passion to make a difference?

The Right Company: This company has 12 years experience of facilitating organisational change and leadership development programmes, using its Affirmatively Disruptive approach to achieve exceptional results.

The Right Candidate: A charismatic, challenging and inspiring leader, you will be passionate about people and know that everything is possible. You will have a demonstrable track record of winning, designing and facilitating transformational programmes. Your combined experience of working in a large corporate and consultancy will ensure you are well equipped to handle complex projects. In return, you can expect great challenges and rewards, whilst working with a top, action-orientated team.

To apply online, visit hays.com/jobs/qod or contact Neil Andrews for a private and confidential discussion. All direct applications will be forwarded to Hays Human Resources.
